

Elwald to become Armstrong;

Because in the world of the Louman, the Elwald can not exist.

To have the unvanquished one first must have the vanquished and from the world of the Louman the Elwald does not exist.

Elwald is a variant of the Scandinavian-Anglo Elgwald, meaning elk or moose of the forest, where Louman in Norman-Anglo means wolf person. Fairbairn, is of Fair Bear, and the Bear, and Moose get along both being of Saxony;

But the elg/elk/moose gets eaten by the wolfs;

With the last past chief and his mother of Clan Elliot United Kingdom the Elwald were recognized;

APPENDIX C

The Name

In charters prior to 1500 the name was usually written in Old English 'Elwald' or 'Elwold'. But it was always pronounced 'Ellot' (as it often is in the Borders to-day) and by 1600 the phonetic spelling had almost completely superseded all other forms. It therefore appears correct to regard the earlier Saxon form of spelling as archaic and to refer to the clan as 'Ellots' until about 1650 when the name was changed altogether to 'Elliot'.

The introduction of an 'i' into the name 'Ellot' was, without doubt, unfortunate. It immediately confused the Clan with the well-known English Norman family of St. Germain, settled in the West Country and South Wales and in no way related, whose name was derived from 'Alyot'. And it confused still further the already indeterminate origin of those whose name was spelt with two 'Ls' and two 'Ts'. As the old verse has it:

BASICALLY

'Double L and single T Elliott from Elwald
The Elliots of Minto and Wolfelee;
Double T and single L Eliott from Elwald
The Eliotts that in Stobs do dwell;
Single L and single T Eliot from Aliot
The Eliots of St. Germain be; UK Elliott from Aliot
But double L and double T US Elliott from Elwald
The de'il may ken wha' they may be.'

But today because of wolf like values coming from the husband of the daughter of the past chief the Elwald are not recognized as a line of clan Elliot.

No vote donors caught in wind farm payments row

A COMPANY involving two major donors to the pro-Union Better Together campaign has been accused of trying to shortchange a Highlands community out of millions of pounds.

North British Wind Energy Ltd has been accused of trying to shortchange a Highland community over a 23-turbine wind farm

North British Wind Energy (NBW) part chair Christopher Wilkins

Stratherrick & Foyers Community Trust, on the southern shore of Loch Ness, is angry at North British Wind Energy Ltd (NBW) for offering to pay less than half the industry benchmark in "community benefit" compensation for a 23-turbine wind farm on the Corriegarth Estate.

Corriegarth is the family estate of former Barings Bank stockbroker Andrew Fraser, who was last week revealed as one of the largest donors to Better Together, after giving £200,000. Fraser first entered into an "option agreement and licence" with NBW in 2008.

NBW is chaired by another Better Together donor, Christopher Wilkins, a former soldier with links to MI6, who recently gave £10,000.

Both Fraser and Wilkins are also significant shareholders in NBW.

NBW is offering to pay the Community Trust £2000 per megawatt (MW) to compensate them for the 50MW wind farm, whose turbines will be 120m high. Two neighbouring SSE wind farms will pay the Trust £5000 per MW.

Used are what he feels to be covert activities to cover it up.

Clan Armstrong Trust and myself in our on spiritually self lead values believe in preservation of the borderlands.

The Wetherill brothers, 1887

Richard Wetherill (1858–1910) and the Wetherill Brothers

The Wetherill brothers were five cowboys from a Quaker family that moved from Kansas to a ranch in southwestern Colorado in the early 1880s. In 1888, the oldest brother, Richard Wetherill, and his brother-in-law Charles Mason discovered Cliff Palace, the largest cliff dwelling in North America, in what is now Mesa Verde National Park. Al Wetherill, the second oldest of the brothers, may have seen Cliff Palace as early as 1885, but it was Richard and Charles Mason who entered the dwelling three years later.

Richard and his brothers excavated artifacts for sale to museums and were hired by the Swedish nobleman Gustaf Nordenskiöld to do more digging at Mesa Verde. The uproar over Nordenskiöld, a foreigner, extracting ancient American treasures for shipment to Europe helped fuel the movement to protect Mesa Verde as a national park.

Wetherill went on to make important excavations in other parts of the Southwest, and though not a professionally trained archaeologist, made significant discoveries. At Chaco Canyon in New Mexico, he undertook extensive excavations as carefully and scientifically as possible. But once again, his activities created a furor in the professional community, leading to the passage of the Act for the Preservation of American Antiquities in 1906. The act gives presidents the unilateral authority to set aside parcels of the public domain for historic or scientific reasons.

Though originally disparaged by professional archaeologists and, at times, the National Park Service, Richard Wetherill is now seen as important to the protection of Mesa Verde and other southwestern ruins. He and his family had proposed that Mesa Verde become a national park early on, and their suggestions were ignored. At Chaco Canyon, he offered to give up his homestead claim if the government would take over the ruins and protect them properly – which happened in 1907, when President Theodore Roosevelt used the Antiquities Act to create Chaco Canyon National Monument.

President Theodore Roosevelt, used the Antiquities Act of 1906, to create Chaco Canyon National Monument (Historical Park) in 1907.

Armstrong have been compared to cowboys, and guess they are both self lead and know the importance of preserving historical antiquities such as The Hermitage Castle for future generations.

Infinis is planning a Wind Turbine farm on my families ancestral land near The Hermitage Castle;

Braidlie, between Gorrenberry, and the Hermitage Castle is the initial home of Martin Elliot, interm chief of the Elliot Clan. Note; Wind Farm is on Hermitage Castle Hill, and it has been said propose Hermitage Hill (Windy Edge) wind turbine array would vandalize the Hermitage Castle.

Windy Edge

Infinis is preparing a planning application for the Windy Edge wind farm. The site is located to the south and west of the Borders Forest Park on the land of Braidlie and Sundhope approximately 12km south of Hawick and 3km north of Hermitage Hermitage Castle is much closer than the 3km to Hermitage town.

We are working with experts in a variety of fields, including ecology, ornithology, cultural heritage and visual impact assessment, to ensure that all possible effects of the proposed wind farm have been taken into consideration. An anemometer mast was installed on the site in June 2011 to gather wind data and a scoping report was submitted to Scottish Borders Council in May 2011. The planning application was submitted in late-June 2013 and can be accessed on the Council planning portal using the reference number 13/00789/FUL.

The final turbine layout consists of 17 wind turbines up to 121.5m in height (to blade tip). The turbine choice is not yet confirmed but the generating capacity of the wind farm is likely to be around 39MW. This layout represents a change from the scheme presented at the first public exhibition, with three turbines removed, the tip height of the turbines reduced, and the distance between turbines and the nearest third-party houses increased.

Martin Elwood/Elwald/Ellot at Braidley was one land of Bothwell acquired from the William Douglas family of Cavers, then he built a strong tower on Redheugh land near Lariston.

Clan Elliot has shown support along with Clan Kerr and Roxburghe (Cessford -Ker) of Infinis building a wind farm on my ancestral lands, of Gorrenberry.

Unlike beating a relative of Buccleuch that of the Duke of Northumberland because he is English, Clan Elliot, Kerr and Roxburghe are using a covert approach of having Infinis do the dirty work for them, against Buccleuch. In a covert sense the Buccleuch Scott, and the Cessford Kerr are still feuding, and the only ones I trust in their clan trust are the Armstrong.

Infinis uses an obscured name of Windy Edge, why did they not call it the Hermitage Castle Wind Farm?

Traditions of Siward and his Son

Croyland also Crowland

saga of the Fairy Bear is at the bottom of the early names and heraldry of the Armstrongs, as also of certain other Scottish and English Border families. Certain shields of the Elliots, called also Elwods, Elyards, and Elwalds, of the Alfords who came from near Croyland to the Border, of Loumanes, of the Liddals, of the Armstrongs, and other Border families undoubtedly pictured this tradition. Now these Liddesdale families were called after their shields, and so were the Forresters and others. The legend of the Fairy Bear is found first in the Edda, then in old Danish (Torfeus' History of Hrolfe Kraka), and in the ¹South German (Die Missgeburt). It has travelled through many centuries; it was undoubtedly known in the eleventh century, and applied to the barbaric ancestor of Siward. This legend was carried from ²Denmark ³to Northumberland, and from the ⁴Border ⁵to Fermanagh. Its seem-

Though it is felt that am related to the present day clan chief;

Am from the William Elwald of Gorranberry-Horseleyhill line, instead of the Redheugh-Horselyhill line. It would have been difficult for Robert of Redheugh to relocate the Elwald/Elliott, and it is felt that Buccleuch got the stepson of Gavin, and his sister Jean Scott, a Gilbert the illegitimate so of Maggie (Helen) Kidd placed at Hartgarth on original Redheugh land, to carry out the process. Acquisition of land made the family more of the values of the Normans in land ownership as opposed to family values. It is the Norman Loumann which do not recognize the Scandinavian Elwald, like the Scandinavian Fairbairn do.

Andrew the father of Andrew alias Dandie the Cow, is the original Cowie of Gorranberry, a story my family made up in order to survive in Norman Louman type society. Can only be a Cowie for so long, then for my own inner survival have to be with those who recognize me for who I am like Lowell Armstrong does.

Because the United Kingdom's Clan Armstrong unlike the Clan Elliot in the United Kingdom is preserving instead of desecrating the borderlands, and recognized the Elwald line, am requesting that the Elwald become like my adopted by the Crozier great grandfather Clementis Hob (Hob-Robert Elwald), like the Crozier a sept of Clan Armstrong.
